

SERVICE. EDUCATION. ENTERTAINMENT

Newsletter

Did someone say Encore?

Great Job Zoe!

The virtual Friday Night Film Screening was such a success we're showing it twice! We appreciate everyone who joined our live screening of Zoe Fulse's first film. We're so proud of all her creativity and discipline to bring her vision to life. Enjoy the encore presentation!

Watch Encore Here!

Happy Black History Month

The Bluest Eye, the first written novel by Toni Morrison, inspires our Bluest Space film & program. Reading this depiction through a child's narration of neglect, colorism, and abuse reminds us of the important role community plays in surrounding, encouraging, and uplifting our youth.

There is a glacier of experiences that take place at home, behind closed doors, but the iceberg of influence the community offers to children can make a world of difference in their lives.

Discover Moknowsest Youth initiatives Here

SERVICE. EDUCATION. ENTERTAINMENT

Newsletter

Take the Lead at Home!

During the Friday Night Film Screening, our featured filmmaker, Zoe Fulse, shared that “reading books help her with new ideas,” and we couldn’t agree more!

Books can help children engage with all kinds of history and creativity, but can be particularly helpful for the nuanced aspects of Black history.

Simple Strategies for Creating Strong Readers at Home!

1. Invite a child to read with you every day.

2. Discuss new words.

3. When reading a book where the print is large, point word by word as you read.

