JUNETEENTH CELEBRATION

June 19th is celebrated as Juneteenth, a day that commemorates the emancipation of enslaved African Americans in the United States. We hope you had a great time celebrating with friends & family!

Summer Tips to Nurture & Maintain KID Creativity:

Keeping kids creative is essential for their development and growth. Here's a few ways you can support youth this summer!

Create a Creative Space

Art Station: Set up a dedicated space with art supplies like paper, crayons, paint, and glue.

Quiet Corner: Have a quiet area where they can read or think without distractions.

Support Their Interests

Follow Their Lead: If they show interest in a particular activity, support and encourage it, whether it's building with Legos, drawing, or playing an instrument.

Provide Resources: Offer books, videos, and materials related to their interests.

Foster Curiosity

Ask Open-Ended Questions: Instead of yes/no questions, ask ones that require more thought, like "What do you think would happen if...?"

Explore New Topics: Introduce them to different subjects, like science, history, or nature, through books and documentaries.
